Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1 and 2, drawn to a method of treating a fibrotic condition via the administration of antisense sp1, classified in class 514, subclass 44.
- II. Claim 3, drawn to a recombinant expression vector comprising a specific fragment of sp1 in an antisense orientation, classified in class 536, subclass 24.5.
- III. Claims 4-7, drawn to a method of treating a fibrotic condition via the administration of an sp1 decoy oligonucleotide, classified in class 514, subclass 44.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions II and III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions cannot be used together. The invention of Group III requires the use of a decoy oligonucleotide and the invention of Group II is a recombinant expression vector that expresses an antisense sp1 that is not used in the method of Group III, for example.

Inventions I and II are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the expression vector of Group II could be used to produce a probe for a hybridization assay that is a different method than a method of treating a fibrotic disease, for example.

Inventions I and III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions are different method that use different compounds that function by different modes. The antisense in the method of Group I may function by inhibiting the expression of sp1 via hybridization to an sp1 mRNA while the decoy of group III may act as a competitive entity that sequesters compounds involved in a process, for example.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Sean R McGarry whose telephone number is (571) 272-0761. The examiner can normally be reached on M-Th (6:00-4:30).
